What are the alternatives?

In terms of alternatives, if you decide not to do this, what should people consider?

Well, people should consider possibly downsizing, renting a room in your house of which the government allow you tax free an amount on that.

And of course, downsizing, you might not want to leave your house because you're surrounded by all the things you love.

And what about other options?

Well, you could discuss it with your family and you can go through with them and see whether they want to, how would you say, lend you money or, or help you out at that time.
